

What's new:

- Notes:
 - It's quiet week for economic data.
 - The market is focusing on US stocks earnings for tech giants.
- Global:
 - There hasn't been any escalation in the Israel-Hamas war since Iran fired missiles at Israel. However, there are sanctions that the US and EU will impose on Iran.
 - The markets recently had a "relief rally" as the focus shifts back on economic data rather than developments on the war.
- EU - The ECB's probability for a rate cut has lowered to 60% this June.

Week ahead:

- Notes:
 - There isn't much economic data that may move the market this week. Let's focus on short term technical trades.
- USD - The possible market movers will be US GDP on Thursday and PCE on Friday. We don't expect much movement from them unless they come out far from expected.
- US Stocks - The market shifts its focus on earnings releases this week. The notable ones are Meta on Wednesday, Microsoft, Google and Intel on Thursday.
